Michael Curtin (Marble Cliff)

In November 2012, Mike Curtin was elected to the Ohio House of Representatives for the 17th District, an area that covers much of West and South Columbus, including the Hilltop and Westgate; Franklin Township; Marble Cliff; San Margherita; Valleyview; and portions of Hamilton Township. Representative Curtin sought his seat in the Ohio House of Representatives first and foremost to actively serve the people of the 17th District by listening to their concerns, working alongside them for jobs, economic opportunity, positive youth programs, neighborhood improvements and public safety. Additionally, working to promote civility and bipartisanship in the effort to address Ohio's problems is a priority for Representative Curtin. He believes there must be more efforts to counter the shrill, overly partisan behavior that undermines public confidence in government. This principle is the foundation of his approach to serving the people of the 17th District and the state of Ohio. As a freshman legislator, Representative Curtin serves on three committees in the Ohio House: Economic Development and Regulatory Reform; Policy and Legislative Oversight; and Agriculture and Natural Resources. Representative Curtin is retired from The Dispatch Printing Company after a 38-year career as reporter, public affairs editor, managing editor, editor, associate publisher, chief operating officer, vice chairman and consultant. He began his career with The Dispatch in 1973 as a general assignment reporter. For 18 years, most of his reporting career, he specialized in the coverage of state and local government, public policy and politics. His beats included Columbus City Hall, Franklin County government, the Ohio General Assembly and local and state political campaigns. In 1985, Representative Curtin became the newspaper's chief political writer, public affairs editor and director of The Dispatch Poll. In October 1994, he became the paper's executive managing editor. He was promoted to editor in December 1995 and associate publisher in July 1998. Representative Curtin was named president of The Dispatch Printing Company in January 1999, chief operating officer in 2002 and vice chairman in 2005. On December 31, 2007, he retired from the executive suite. From January 1, 2008 through December 31, 2011, as associate publisher emeritus, he served as a consultant to The Dispatch on civic and community affairs and provided research and advice on subjects of editorial interest. Representative Curtin is the author of The Ohio Politics Almanac, 1st and 2nd editions, published by Kent State University Press. He also is author of the chapter, "The O'Neill-DiSalle Years, 1957-1963," in the book Ohio Politics, published by Kent State University Press. He has written several speeches on key issues that have been published in the monthly magazine Vital Speeches of the Day. In civic and community service, Representative Curtin has served on the boards of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce, the Ohio Newspaper Association, the Mount Carmel Health System, the Mount Carmel College of Nursing, the YMCA of Central Ohio, the Columbus Metropolitan Library Foundation, the Catholic Foundation of the Diocese of Columbus, Ohio Dominican University and Prevent Blindness Ohio. Representative Curtin is a native of Columbus, a graduate of Bishop Watterson High School (1969) and a graduate of the Ohio State University School of Journalism (1973). He and his wife, Sharon Curtin, have been married for 37 years and reside in the Village of Marble Cliff; they have two children and two grandchildren. Representative Curtin is a licensed umpire for the Ohio High School Athletic Association. He umpires high-school baseball and fastpitch softball games throughout central Ohio.

After graduating cum laude with a bachelor's degree in business and political science from Walsh College, Skindell earned his law degree from the Cleveland-Marshall College of Law. At the Statehouse, Senator Skindell has advocated for greater consumer protection, affordable prescription drugs and utility costs, preserving the environment, economic opportunities for working families and the poor, universal health care and the development of Ohio's renewable energy resources. He played a key role in crafting the 2007-2008 budget that passed with just one dissenting vote. Senator Skindell has served as Chairman of the Joint Commission on Agency Rule Review and as Vice Chair of the Ohio House Consumer and Economic Protection Committee. Senator Skindell currently serves as the Ranking Member on the Senate Judiciary Committee as well as on Financial Institutions. His other committees include Government Oversight and Reform, Judiciary, Way and Means and Economic Development, the Joint Committee on Agency Rule and Review and the Joint Legislative Ethics Committee. At home, Senator Skindell is a former member of the Board of Trustees of the Barton Senior Center and Westerly Senior Apartments in Lakewood and the Lakewood Jaycees, where he served as president in 1999.

Representative Vernon Sykes (Akron, Ohio)

State Representative Vernon Sykes (D-Akron) brings decades of public service experience to his role at the Ohio House, having served parts of the city of Akron for 24 years. He served two terms on Akron City Council before his appointment to the House of Representatives in 1983. Term limits forced Rep. Sykes out of the Ohio House in 2000, allowing him to successfully return to serve as state representative in 2007. Rep. Sykes believes a quality education results in future success, and he speaks on that subject with an expert voice and an impressive background. He holds a Bachelor's Degree in Organizational Behavior from Ohio University, a Master's Degree in Social and Applied Economics from Wright State University, a Master's of Public Administration from Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government, and a Ph.D. in Public Administration and Urban Studies from the University of Akron. Rep. Sykes enjoys the classroom, training young minds for the challenges of tomorrow. He has taught American Urban Society and Economics courses as an assistant professor at the University of Akron. He leads Kent State's Columbus Program in Intergovernmental Issues, a program that offers a selected group of college students the opportunity to live, work and study public policy in Ohio's capital city. In 2007, Rep. Sykes was awarded the Outstanding Teaching Award for Kent State University where he serves as an assistant professor of political science. As a state legislator, Rep. Sykes sponsored legislation to toughen child abuse laws, to compensate wrongly-imprisoned individuals, and to prevent railroad crossing fatalities. He also championed the strongest fair housing law in the nation during his service. During his tenure, Sykes served as president of what is now the Ohio Legislative Black Caucus, as well as Assistant Majority Floor Leader. He was most recently honored by the National Association of Social Workers as Public Elected Official of the Year. Rep. Sykes serves as Ranking member of the House Finance and Appropriations Committee and Co-Chairman of the Constitutional Modernization Commission. He also serves on the State Government and Elections Committee, the Local Government Committee and the State Government and Elections Subcommittee on Redistricting.

Bob A. Taft (Springfield, Ohio)

Bob Taft began his career in public service as a Peace Corps Volunteer, working as a schoolteacher in Tanzania, East Africa right after graduating from college. He went on to get a masters degree in government from Princeton and a law degree from the University of Cincinnati. His first job in government was with the Bureau of the Budget in the State of Illinois. He has served as an elected official in Ohio for 30 years, as a member of the state legislature, a county commissioner, Ohio Secretary of State and, most recently, as Governor of Ohio. In his role as Governor, he focused on improving schools, reforming Ohio's tax system, attracting advanced, high paying jobs and helping communities clean up polluted properties and provide better recreational opportunities for their citizens. He is currently a Distinguished Research Associate with the University of Dayton, lecturing in a number of different classes, teaching a political science course on the U.S. Congress and working with the School of Education on special projects.
